The Anixter Difference

Whether you are a large company with multiple sites across the globe or a small, single-site business, Anixter's premier global distribution network can support your product and supply chain needs anywhere in the world. For more than 100,000 customers worldwide, Anixter is more than just a global distributor of 400,000 world-class, quality products. Day in and day out, our customers depend on Anixter's local presence in 50 countries to assist them with their projects that span across the world.

At Anixter, when we say we're global, we mean it. We don't just ship products from the U.S. to various countries. We are physically located in 248 cities across the world. Our sales specialists are familiar with local market trends as well as local currencies and customs. By speaking 30 different languages, we can better serve our customers' diverse needs.

Business Drivers for Global Customers

- Single point of contact for global programs with in-country representatives
- Customized deployment plans for major projects
- Business conducted in the local language, currency and time zone
- Assistance in finding quality, locally authorized systems integrators
- Assistance in coordinating a local technical standard
- Global consistency and reporting: systems, processes and services
- Transportation management and importation services: deliveries must meet custom's documentation, tax and duty requirements

Benefits of Anixter's Global Services

- Worldwide footprint with a global, yet local, support team
- Local inventory for reduced transit times
- Efficient management of import and export transactions
- Global product usage consolidation and data analysis
- Guidance with global technical standards
- Support for corporate specifications
- One real-time electronic system – eAnixter – for product visibility worldwide
- Serve all locations as one company, not as a collection of affiliates
